I understand that the F.C.C. will hear a request by a national association of banks seeking to weaken Wisconsin's protection of consumers against telemarketing abuse. The banks want Wisconsin's protection of consumers through its "No Call List" provision replaced by much weaker federal laws. We in Wisconsin are very happy with the arrangement for protection that our state has provided and are very opposed to the federal government doing anything to provide advantages to the businesses that want to engage in telemarketing. Please say no the banks!

We do not want any telemarketers calling either number Furthermore we are deluged by communications + solicitations by banks, particularly Citibank, Amcore, other out-of-state banks + credit-card businesses. We resent attempts to bypass "no-call lists". The US Govt and State Governments

Re: No Call List Threatened

Dear Dept. of Agriculture:

Appreciate this opportunity to inform the Wisconsin Dept. of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection, the Wisconsin's No Call List should not be altered or modified by any proposal forwarded to the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

The Wisconsin No Call List provides strong protection to more than 80 percent of state residents. Telemarketing is the #1 consumer complaint in Wisconsin.

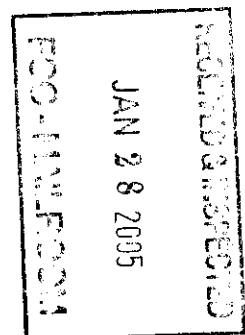

Prior to Wisconsin's No Call List taking effect homeowners were threatened by non-stop unwanted calls threatening one's home peace and security. The telephone was used as a weapon against our serenity and right to a peaceful residence.

Homeowners pay their own telephone bills therefore we have the right to control the use of that telephone. Appreciate any effort the Wisconsin Dept. of Agriculture can offer to defend our No Call List and maintain its current protection without exception to any business proposal.

Thank You,

Dear Sir or Madam:

Re: FCC Comments re No-Call List

We are very much opposed to the Federal Communication Commission replacing Wisconsin's strict "No-Call List" Program with a less effective Federal version.

Wisconsin's list was developed to protect state residents from unwanted advertising and solicitation—the goal being consumer protection. From a basic review of the proposed federal version, it appears the federal goal is to establish a more liberal program skewed toward the solicitors.

Inasmuch as the public who wish to receive phone solicitations can choose not to participate in any program, we strongly urge that those of us who do not wish to be contacted by solicitors have strong regulations in place to stop or at least effectively limit the number of calls we receive.

Wisconsin's program has been very effective, and we suggest it be considered as a model for any federal list.

Very truly yours,

Carol Kaisler

Dear Consumer Protection:

I am writing to support your efforts on behalf of the consumers of Wisconsin concerning the "No Call" list. In the previous two years we were not listed on the "no call" list, and during that time received hundreds, if not thousands of unwanted calls. As of January 1, 2005, we are now part of the million plus residents of Wisconsin, who have opted to have their privacy again. Frankly, we like the fact that we can enjoy our dinners without those unwanted phone intrusions. We like the way our state has provided us with an option that works very well in Wisconsin. What we don't like is the possibility that the federal government can interfere with our state's right, and with something that is working quite well for Wisconsin consumers. Please help us to maintain the current way that our "no call" list works. Thank you.

Sincerely,

No Call List
Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection
PO Box 8911
Madison, WI 53708

As a resident of the state of Wisconsin, I am concerned about the possible change in the "No Call List" that is currently in place in our state. Since the start of the no call list in Wisconsin, I have been included on that list and have since renewed my name on the list. Since the beginning, I have been extremely satisfied with the decrease in interruptions in my family's lives due to the blocking of telemarketing calls to our home. To change the law would be a big mistake in our eyes. We don't want to be exposed to telemarketing from businesses just because we have had contact with the business in the past. To be contacted by companies that I no longer do business with would increase the chance that I will never do business with them or their affiliates in the future. I will no longer consider making a change from my current services to the business that has a telemarketer call me.

I believe I am not the only one in this state that feels this way. I think the businesses that are pushing for this change in our law should rethink their stand on this. They will most likely lose a lot of future business if they start having telemarketers start bothering us again. I am all for them sending me information in the mail for me to read about their services on my own time. For them to start having telemarketers call me on their time – not mine – will force me to not consider their services in the future.

Please let our law remain as it is currently. We are very happy with its results.

Sincerely,

No Call List
Wisconsin Department of

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am writing in response to a news article that appeared in the Antigo Daily Journal on Friday, January 21, 2005. The piece informed me that the Federal Communications Commission is contemplating passage of a regulation that would overrule the Wisconsin No Call List and replace it with the weaker Federal No Call List.

This is to inform you that I am on the Wisconsin No Call List and do not wish to be subjected to the risk of harassment posed by telemarketers just drooling at the prospect of my phone number being released to them. If I could take action to avoid being contacted by politicians and charitable organizations, believe me, I would promptly do so. I just want to be left alone!

That the FCC would even entertain the petition of the Consumer Bankers Association tells me that they do not have my best interests at heart. Iraq is not the only country occupied by foreigners. Those folks in the current regime in Washington, D.C. do not even speak my language.

If your agency has in its employ any translators, perhaps you could forward the message contained in this letter: If the members of the Consumer Bankers Association wish to avoid confusion at the conflicts between the Federal and Wisconsin regulations, they need only to conform with the Wisconsin regulations on a nationwide basis. If the FCC wishes to minimize the number of potential petitions based on "multiple, conflicting regulations," they need merely to adopt the Wisconsin regulation.

Thank you for your attention and any assistance you can lend in this matter.

Yours truly,

Donald C Mollet

We are opposed to any relaxing of the rules on Wisconsin's No Call List.

We would be in favor of extending it to cover requests for political contributions or solicitations for votes.

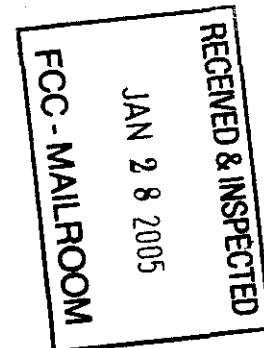

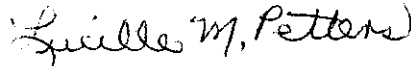

In addition this list should cover unsolicited commercial fax messages. We often receive calls after midnight that wake us up from people trying to access our machine which is turned off.

We pay for our phone service and strongly believe it is for our use and not for others to market their products.

We are your address on TV in regard to the
"Don't call list"

We are supposed to be on that side, the above thing said that service will be looked again by the marketer, we don't need that.

Please help record the problem, thank you

Dear The

We find telemarketing to be an invasion of our privacy. Thus we are strongly against any change to our state of Wisconsin "No Call List" law.

This is in reference to C.H. Becker
No. 02-278.

Please place the Consumers' wishes before by telemarketers. We don't want to hear from them.

Sincerely,
Carol Rand RN

To whom it May Concern,

This is to inform you that I and my husband want Wisconsin's "No Call List" to continue on AS + S. We are sick & tired of telemarketers calling us at all hours of the night and day.

Respectfully,
Josephine E. Eberhardt

Dear Sirs,

I am writing to tell you that we are not in favor of the WI, "Do Not Call" list ~~being~~ rescinded.

We are an 80 yr. old couple who have mobility problems & find it most annoying to pull ourselves from our chairs to answer annoying unsolicited sales - pitching phone calls.

We are still able to use a phone book and are able to place phone calls when we have the desire & need to do so.

Please, do not rescind the WI "Do not Call" list.

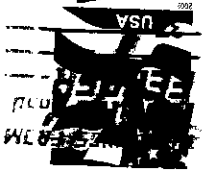

Sincerely,

Lila L. Woods

Re: The No Call List

We ask that you please allow the No Call List to stay in effect.

We are senior citizens on a very limited income and it is distressing to get these unwanted calls.

Thank you for your help.

Please keep the Wisconsin No Call list as it is. We are senior citizens and do not appreciate having to answer the phone when there is nothing we will buy from a phone call.
We have seen some older adults very confused after these calls as they don't understand the calls.

Sincerely,

Carl & Charlene Wimmeler

To Whom It May Concern -
Please do not allow Wisconsin to lose its current "no-call" policy.
Wisconsin's current "no-call" policy is more effective than the federal policy in restricting telemarketing calls.
Thank you for your consideration in this matter.
